Elliott represents clients nationally and internationally in all major areas of the insurance industry spanning the life and nonlife areas including property and casualty, aviation/space, accident, and health. In addition, he has in-depth experience with premium financing, captives, financial and structured reinsurance transactions, and regulatory representation.

Client Work

Elliott has served as an officer and director for several major insurers and reinsurers. He has significant experience in the financial reinsurance arena and is intimately familiar with regulatory, tax, and commercial components of complex insurance and reinsurance transactions and handling mergers and acquisitions.

His practice includes the formation of insurers including protected cell captives, commutations, offshore captive arrangements, assumption-novation transactions, representation of agents and brokers, intermediaries, internal investigations, compliance, and records retention protocols.

In his 43 years of practice, Elliott has served as lead counsel in more than 100 reinsurance disputes including some of the most significant industry issues. Prior reinsurance arbitration and litigation experience has included insolvency issues, asbestos/environmental allocation, and disputes involving managing agents and brokers.

Previous Work

Prior to joining ArentFox Schiff, Elliott was the chair of the Insurance and Reinsurance Practice Group at a New York law firm.
