Vyasa is passionate about creating meaningful change through positive experiences. As a member of the firm’s nationally recognized Environmental Practice Group, Vyasa helps clients comply with environmental and energy laws and regulations. This includes advising on permits, reporting requirements, and operational practices to ensure adherence to local, state, and federal environmental laws.

Vyasa also handles complex litigation and regulatory matters under federal, state, and local environmental laws. His practice also includes helping clients adjust to the shifting ESG landscape by implementing creative and flexible governance strategies.

Vyasa has experience in immigration law, constitutional law, investigations, and Environmental Social Justice (ESG). Before joining ArentFox Schiff, he worked as a policy analyst in the area of oral healthcare. He also has experience regarding animal protection laws at the state and federal levels, and the impact of data driven approaches for lobbying efforts.
